City Council Approved Resolution to Pay Notes for $8,000 Held by Two National Banks.

THAT GAS BILL TO BE SETTLED

Many Complaints Made About Failure to Remove Garbage and Action Will be Taken.

Although quite a number of minor matters were presented at the regular session of the city council Thursday night, the business was conducted with dispatch and the meeting was one of the shortest that has been held in two months. All the members answered to roll call and Mayor Ross presided.

After Clark Johnson read the minutes of the previous meeting, Rockstroh moved to change the description of the proposed sewer on Mill street by having it begin at Seventh street instead of at Sixth street. Ahlbrand explained that by an error the petition stated Seventh street in one place and Sixth street in another sentence. Rockstroh's motion was passed unanimously.

Ahlbrand, chairman of the finance board, stated that the expense of the street department was very heavy and at the present rate would exceed that of last year and probably there will not be sufficient money in the street fund to pay for the work. He suggested that the council consider the question and if possible devise some method by which the expense might be reduced.

Upon motion of Rockstroh the street commissioner was instructed to flush a sewer belonging to G. H. Anderson and that the latter be charged for the work. He also moved that a hole in the street at the corner of Walnut and McDonald be filled up, which motion was carried.

Rockstroh stated that several parties had asked for the right to make a tennis court in the city park and moved that they be granted the privilege. Andrews amended the motion by granting the request if there were no objection from the park committee of citizens appointed by the Mayor some weeks ago. The amended motion was carried. Ahlbrand suggested that none of the trees be moved or damaged.

Rockstroh reported that residents on Poplar street between Sixth and Seventh streets had filed a complaint that the improved street was not swept. The council was of the opinion that this block has been assigned to one of the street sweepers and the street commissioner was instructed to look up the division of territory and instruct the sweeper to look after that block.

Upon motion of Rockstroh the street commissioner was instructed to clean up the City cemetery before Decoration Day.

Andrews, chairman of the school committee, reported that Superintendent Mott had issued an invitation to the committee to visit the schools and asked the other members to confer with him and decide

CHARLES TRUMBO NAMED TO REPRESENT LOCAL SCHOOL

Winner in Preliminary Will Speak in District Oratorical Contest at Vevay Tonight.

Charles Trumbo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Trumbo, will represent the Shields high school in the district high school oratorical contest at Vevay tonight. He was given first place in the preliminary contest at the high school Thursday afternoon.

There were three contestants in the preliminary contest. Miss Faye Everhart and Horace Ackerman both handled the subject well. Ernest Amick intended to speak but was prevented by illness. All the speakers spoke on "Does Indiana need a Constitutional Convention." This subject was selected by Indiana University in order to promote the study of civic government among the high school students of the state.

The winner will represent the local high school in the district contest tonight and the winner there will enter the state contest at Bloomington which will be held on Friday, May 29. The preliminary contest was held in the gymnasium and several musical numbers were given by the entire school and also by a chorus.

BOY ALMOST SEVERED END OF TONGUE BETWEEN TEETH

Armond Pettus Meets With Painful Accident When He and Companion Collided.

Armond Pettus, son of Rev. and Mrs. Edward L. Pettus, met with a painful accident Thursday afternoon while playing ball at the Country Club grounds. The Pettus had and a companion who were running towards each other collided.

When the two lads met the Pettus boy almost severed the end of his tongue between his teeth. The wound bleed profusely and seven stitches were required to close it. His front tooth was also knocked out when he fell. While the injury is painful it is not considered serious.

FARMERS' CLUB ADVERTISES CITY

Metropolitan Newspapers in Several States Refer Editorially to the New Association.

HIGH PRAISE FOR THE PLAN

Writers Say Idea is Worthy to be Followed in Every Community in the United States.

Seymour is receiving a large amount of wholesome advertising throughout the United States as a result of the Farmers' Club. The idea which originated with M. S. Bilsh, of this city, has been heralded by some of the metropolitan newspapers as one of unusual merit and editorially these publications have suggested that the plan be adopted in their own states. The wide publicity given the Association is accounted for in a large measure by the fact that Seymour is to have the first club of this kind in the United States.

Since the announcement was made by the Bilsh Estate who are to build the club and maintain it with an endowment many inquiries have been made about the plan. The association has a special news value as the club will be the first and only one in the country and the newspapers are always desirous of publishing new and novel features. After the building is completed and the Club is in use its value to the community will be watched with interest.

An interesting feature in connection with the articles which have appeared about the new club is that Seymour is generally believed to be the county seat of Jackson county. Even the Indianapolis News referred to the city as the county capital and the same idea has been carried forward by other newspapers which have commented on the plan.

One of the latest editorials regarding the club appears in the Cleveland Plain Dealer and reads as follows.

Seymour is the seat of Jackson county, Ind., a town of good repute, doubtless, but not conspicuous heretofore. But Seymour has originated an idea of such excellence that it deserves many followers. The Indianapolis News bespeaks ninety-one followers in that state alone. There are eighty-eight similar opportunities in Ohio.

This Hoosier county seat proposes to establish a club house or social center for Jackson county farmers visiting the little capital. It is to be a sort of welcome sign hung out by the municipality to the hundreds who gather there to dispose of their produce and to buy in return the goods the town affords.

Rest rooms, reading rooms and lunch facilities will be furnished and no membership fees or formalities asked. It will be a place where farmers may go and take their families for an hour or two any time they see fit, where they will be likely to find companions of similar tastes and interests, where they may talk crops, politics and good roads and get in touch with the world by a new route. The building is to be erected in memory of a pioneer citizen of Jackson county.

FLY APPEARS IN EARLY SOWN WHEAT

Reports From Various Parts of County that Pest has Done but Little Damage.

SOME FIELDS FREE FROM BUG

Majority of Farmers do not Believe that Grain Sown Late in Fall Will be Damaged.

While it is stated that the Hessian fly, the little but powerful enemy of the farmer, has appeared in a number of wheat fields in various parts of the county, the reports regarding the damage are conflicting. In some localities it is said that the pests have appeared in large numbers and that the stalks of the tender grain have been damaged to some extent already. Other reports have been received that the fields are entirely free from the fly and it is not believed that it will appear.

According to the best information available it is found that the Hessian fly has appeared in fields which were sown early but as a rule little damage has yet been done. The wheat that was sown late appears to be fairly free from the pest and it will not likely appear in such fields this year. As a rule this year the early sown fields are most susceptible to the fly.

One farmer who has given special and careful attention to the growing wheat reports that he does not believe that the damage from the fly in this county will be great this year. He said that the cold, wet weather early in the spring was favorable to the fly as the eggs were delayed in hatching. Usually the fly is at work on the wheat by the middle of May but because of the weather this spring its appearance may be a little later. He further stated that the fly would do little or no damage after the stalks had reached a certain point in maturity and he was of the opinion that the early wheat was past the danger point.

According to the information received at the Blish Mills from other states the Hessian fly has appeared in some localities while in other places the fields are entirely free from the pest. Conflicting reports are made as to whether serious damage will result.

G. H. Anderson reports that he has made an investigation of conditions and finds that the wheat has been damaged some by the wet weather and that the fly has appeared in many fields. However, he states that the pest is not as thick upon close investigation as a general view of a field from the road indicates.

The majority of the farmers in Jackson county report that the wheat is in good condition thus far and unless the fly appears the prospects for a good crop are very encouraging. Some of the farmers state that the prospects are the best at this season for a number of years. The winter was favorable to the growing wheat and it has made rapid progress since the opening of spring. It is probably that most of the early sown fields have advanced far enough so that the fly cannot do a great amount of damage.

This is the first spring for several years that the fly has appeared in sufficient number to cause alarm. A few years ago the pest did a vast amount of damage not only in Jackson county but throughout the state.

NEW WITNESSES FOR STATE TESTIFY IN BECKER TRIAL

Believed that Former N. Y. Police Lieutenant will Take Stand in His Own Behalf.

New York, May 15.—New witnesses for the state testified today at the second trial of Charles Becker, former police lieutenant, on charges of having instigated the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, who, it is alleged, he feared was preparing to accuse him of receiving graft in return for protection to gambling houses.

With the conclusion of the testimony of Harry Vallon today it was expected that District Attorney Charles S. Whitman would call several witnesses who did not testify at the first Becker trial. Vallon is the last of the three principal witnesses, and the prosecution probably will complete its case on Monday or Tuesday of next week, when the defense will open.

From the line of cross-examination followed by Martin T. Manton, chief counsel for the defense, close observers of the case today believed that Becker would take the stand in a final effort to convince the jury of his innocence.

Vallon's direct testimony was nearly completed at adjournment yesterday and his cross-examination was begun today.

The name of James Marshall, colored, was brought into the case by Vallon, who, on direct testimony declared that Marshall was able to prove Becker took part with Bald Jack Rose, Bridgie Webber and Vallon himself in a meeting in Harlem where Rosenthal's death was finally planned. The court of appeals, in granting Becker a new trial, dubbed this meeting "the heart of the conspiracy." Becker was taken out of the Sing Sing death house by the appellate court's decision because the testimony of Rose, Webber and Vallon, accomplices in Rosenthal's murder, was not confirmed in the first trial by any unsmirched witness.

HARRY VANCE SWOPE WILL HAVE TWO PICTURES HERE

Former Seymour Boy Has Gained International Reputation as an Artist—Studied Abroad.

Among the pictures to be shown at the art exhibit here will be two paintings by Harry Vance Swope, a former Seymour boy and a nephew of Postmaster Allen Swope. He was reared in this city and has a number of acquaintances here.

After completing his early educational training, Mr. Swope studied art at New York and spent several years abroad. He has gained an international reputation and has pictures in art galleries both in the United States and abroad. The two paintings which will be shown here are "The Italian Garden" and "Arbor Polesm." Both are highly valued.

Harl Schmidt, a brother of Mrs. Albert Meseke, of this city, has announced that he will have some hand decorated china on display at the exhibit. Mr. Schmidt is making arrangements to move to this city. Some of his work was received today.

On account of a demand for Albert's None Such Cleaner, he will remain for another week. 26 E. 2nd St. Fox's. J. A. Alberts.

EXPLOSION WRECKS FACTORY; 12 DEAD

More than Thirty Other Employees Injured when Mexican Crude Rubber Plant is Wrecked.

ENTIRE CITY IS SHAKEN

One-Story Concrete Building in Ruins—Many Buried Beneath the Debris.

By United Press.

Detroit, Mich., May 15.—Twelve men were killed and more than thirty are missing as the result of an explosion at the Mexican Crude Rubber factory in this city, today. The entire city was shaken by the explosion.

The one-story concrete building occupied by the company is in ruins. Many injured are lying among the ruins and hundreds of persons are aiding the fire department and police in removing the dead and injured. The wrecked building caught fire from the explosion and several of the employees perished under the debris were burned to death or are in a serious condition.

A crowd of several thousand persons gathered at the scene. Hundreds eager to ascertain if relatives or friends were killed or injured rushed towards the building and a riot was narrowly averted when the police checked the rush.

The complete list of the dead and wounded has not been completed. It is thought that several of the workmen were buried beneath the wreckage.

HURTY HAS HIS OWN VIEWS ON CHARITY

Health Expert Says Relief Which Does not Lead to Prevention Results in Ill.

NICOTINE IS CAUSE OF CRIME

Alcohol, Nicotine and Caffeine, He Says, Do More Harm Than Morphine, Cocaine and Heroin.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, Ind., May 15—Many profess to see a dig at charity in a statement written for the United Press today by Dr. John N. Hurty, state health commissioner. Dr. Hurty asserts that charity encourages sickness, and quotes a report of the Charity Organization Society of Indianapolis to back up his statement. Dr. Hurty makes the rather surprising statement that alcohol, nicotine and caffeine (liquor, tobacco and coffee) do more harm to the human race than do morphine, cocaine and heroin, and then he says he expects in return for that statement "to reap a bumper crop of jeers, sneers and yells of 'crank'."

The Indiana health expert writes: On April 6th the Charity Organization Society made public a report showing that "never before his 'relief' work been so heavy this late in spring. 'Relief' was given to families involving 1,321 persons. Of the cases, 38 were deserted wives, 60 were widows and 7 were divorced women. Four families needed relief because the bread winners were imprisoned, 166 because of sickness and 113 because of ill health."

This report speaks eloquently for disease prevention work. It plainly shows that charity, which does not lead to prevention, is only half charity, and results in ill. Charity and 'relief work' which are not practiced as a means of teaching, and if necessary, of forcing prevention, are down right evils.

Consider the above report: of 284 families, involving 1,321 persons, 4 were given relief because the breadwinners were in jail. Why were they in jail? Investigate these prisoners and it is two to one they are suffering from some kind of sickness or disease. Very probably, alcohol disease, nicotine disease or some other 'dope' disease. No one will deny that alcohol causes much crime. Those who are in doubt about the crime producing power resident in nicotine should remember the recent incident at the Indiana Reformatory where an inmate deliberately killed another inmate so he would be sent to the Michigan City prison where tobacco is furnished criminals by the taxpayers.

The "dope" known as nicotine causes crime in Indiana every day of the year. Ask charity workers and they will tell you they frequently find instances where women and children are underfed and even starving, and are driven to begging and even stealing; yet the breadwinner will have an abundance of nicotine and will become indignant and hurl "crank" if asked to do without it and buy bread for his children. With such, the cry is "nicotine first and food and honesty afterward."

There are many facts and figures to warrant the statement that the three dopes, alcohol, nicotine and caffeine, do more harm to the human race and bring more ills to society, than do the three dopes—morphine, cocaine and heroin. Yet the first three are taken openly and without shame, and the users of the last three secretly commit their sin.

Relief by the Charity Organization is necessitated almost entirely by some form of preventable sickness or disease, and prevention is possible at one-tenth the cost of having disease. Yet, if one proposes the common sense prevention, he will reap a bumper crop of peers, sneers and yells of crank. But, from whom?

That we promote and foster sickness and disease with their incident crime, pauperism, insanity, idiocy and relief, there is not the least doubt.

The conditions of consumption are almost ubiquitous. The conditions that induce typhoid fever are found in almost every alley in cities and towns and at almost every farm house. Nature is kind, yes indulgent, to bring us only 18,000 cases of typhoid and 1,000 typhoid deaths annually at an annual cost of at least $2,500,000.

We are indeed a great and practical people. We soak up dopes to the injury of body, mind and souls. Through wrong, and hence foolish living, we bring upon ourselves constipation with its procession of ills,

THE NECK FINISH IMPORTANT TO THE FROCK

Collars have always been important to the frock or suit, but this season they are particularly so. There are several designs that are favored, among them the wide, flaring lace collar, the Normandy peasant collar, the Gladstone, which is wired or starched in stiff points on either side of the chin, the hood and the Japanese. The Japanese neck line flares away from the throat, and while it is perhaps the most up to date of all at the moment, is not as generally becoming as those coming to a V in front. Paquin shows on several of her frocks, a novel neck line; it is decidedly decollete in back while in front it comes up considerably higher. Conservative dressers will no doubt fight rather shy of this unless it proves to be unusually becoming.

In the gabardine street frock shown in No. 8279, there is a shawl collar of striped taffeta and revers outlining the U-shaped opening on the front of the bodice; these and also the girdle are of the striped silk.

Among the other smart features of this design is the vest of plaited batiste, the drop shoulders and the three-tiered skirt.

This dress requires, for size 36, 6½ yards of 36-inch material.

The Japanese collar is effectively shown in Nos. 8309-8311. The costume, which shows a blouse and tunic of figured silk crepe and a skirt of black taffeta, is an attractive design for street or informal afternoon affairs.

It may be made up in size 36 with 3 yards of 36-inch material for the blouse (8309), and 3¾ yards of 36-inch material for the skirt (8311).

FORMER PROGRESSIVE TO PUBLISH REPUBLICAN PAPER

John R. Carr, Well Known Editor, Will Begin Publication of Paper at Fowler.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 15.—While at Republican state headquarters in the Hotel Severin today, John R. Carr, who as publisher of the Republican-Leader at Fowler, Ind., supported Roosevelt and Beveridge in 1912, announced that he would soon begin the publication of a Republican newspaper in Fowler to be known as the Fowler Tribune. Mr. Carr is one of the best known newspaper men in the state.

After the election in 1912 Mr. Carr sold the Fowler Republican-Leader, which continued Progressive. A short time ago this paper for lack of popular support suspended publication, and Mr. Carr who had retired to his farm at once began laying plans for the establishment of a newspaper to support the Republican party. In 1893 Mr. Carr established the Fowler Leader and some time later he purchased the Republican and combined the two under the name of the Republican-Leader.

"The Republicans of Indiana at the recent convention adopted a great platform" said Mr. Carr. "There is now every reason why any one who ever believed the principles of the Republican party should support the party and its ticket. Democratic mismanagement of affairs is rapidly crystallizing sentiment in favor of the Republican party." Mr. Carr announced that the first issue of the new Republican paper would appear next week.

The Rev. Wirt Lowther, pastor of the M. E. church at Columbus, has been asked to accept the pastorate of the Waugh M. E. church at Washington, D. C. He has not yet decided whether or not he will accept the invitation.

Mrs. L. L. Bollinger and son went to Danville this morning to spend several days with relatives.

WHERE ADVERTISING PAYS.
(Anderson Herald.)

The value of advertising was learned long ago by merchants. They found it was worth while because it got results. Facts could be presented on the printed page in a way that appealed to people. A man or woman, looking over the newspaper in the quiet of the home, was in a mood to respond to a well put suggestion. Good advertising, properly presented in the right sort of medium, would move people in large masses because it reached them at the psychological moment.

This lesson, as has been said, was learned long ago, by business men in sharp competition with each other. But the churches, not given to innovations, until recently ignored the possibilities of newspaper advertising.

Then it began to occur to business men connected with churches that they were overlooking an opportunity. The church was being crowded out of the lives of many men and women through sheer heedlessness. In cities in particular it was easy to neglect the services and in most cases there was nobody to do any reminding. So a year ago earnest men undertook to raise money to conduct advertising campaigns to urge churchgoing.

The result in the first cities that tried the plan were so encouraging that it spread to other cities. Today all over the country people are persuasively urged in display advertising on Saturday to go to church the next day. So great has the interest in these methods become that a book has recently been written on the subject of "Church Publicity; The Modern Way to Compel them to Come in," by the Rev. C. F. Reiser of New York, formerly of Kansas City.

A campaign to advertise churchgoing began in Kansas City recently. The advertising set forth reasonably and persuasively considerations why men and women should go to church. It called attention to the value of churches to the community the obligation to support them, the unconsciously retarding influence of the person who stays away from church.

This sort of advertising repeated week after week is bound to have a profound effect. It is going to produce results just as secular advertising produces results—Only its results are to be counted in happier and finer lives, and more devoted citizenship.

TAKING OF TAMPICO.

The capture of Tampico by the Constitutionalists has an important bearing on the Mexican situation. The Federal army now intends to forge its way towards Mexico City and the taking of that point will more than likely mean the ultimate downfall of Dictator Huerta. During the last month the Rebels have taken much new territory which fact will give strength to their cause.

Carranza, it is reported, will soon ask the United States to recognize him as the president of Mexico and allow the importation of arms so the Rebels may soon bring their campaign to a close. If the Constitutionalists are successful in crushing the Federals, the solution of the present complications so far as the United States is concerned will be greatly simplified. The administration has demanded that Huerta withdraw from his position but thus far the dictator has refused to comply with the request. There can be no adjustment of the difficulties as long as this condition exists. Thus far the administration has followed the watchful, waiting policy and has used only such force as was necessary for the protection of the lives of American citizens living in Mexico. This country has not made an official declaration of war, although its acts could very easily be interpreted as such.

President Wilson declares that he is confident that war will be averted and that the situation will be solved by new developments in that country. It is needless to add that such a solution would be far more satisfactory than for the United States to invade Mexico and overthrow the Huerta government by force. The dictator insists that he will not resign and that invasion by the United States will be followed by endless guerilla warfare. But it now appears that he is rapidly losing ground and that he will be unable to maintain his present attitude as his army will soon be divided and his government crushed by his political enemies.

DAILY CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN.

The successful results of the clean-up and paint-up campaign which is being completed in this city shows what can be accomplished by co-operation. The city officials have been informed that during the last week trash which has been collecting for the last ten years has been removed and that many parts of the city which were unsightly because of the debris, ashes and little have been greatly improved in appearance. Such campaigns as these are without a question valuable to the city from the sanitary standpoint as well as from that of appearance.

When the campaign was first proposed the city council agreed to haul away the trash free of charge. It was expected that this could be done by employing a few teams in addition to the regular city street force. But when the street commissioner began the work he found it a larger contract than he anticipated and consequently the expense was correspondingly greater. However, the money has been well expended and full value received.

The many complaints about the failure of the contractors to remove ashes and garbage may be accounted for because of clean-up week. In all parts of the city the property owners have carefully followed the instructions of the committee and an unsightly pile of ashes or a neglected garbage can is more noticeable than when the back yards and alleys were covered with paper and litter.

Now that the campaign has closed and the city is in a clean, sanitary condition, it is an opportune time to suggest that the clean-up campaign be observed fifty-two weeks in the year instead of but six days. If each lot and each alley is kept in a good condition day by day there will be no need of another general campaign in the future. But this cannot be done except by co-operation. The clean-up spirit is contagious. If all the lots in a block are kept in a good condition property owners in the adjoining block who are more careless will give their property attention. But neglect in one block usually means neglect in another, so it is important that each property owner exercise care in keeping his premises free from trash and debris.

Commenting upon the expense of the state fire marshal's office, the Columbus Republican says: "The fire marshalship, with its corps of generously paid assistants, is another of the many reasons why it was necessary for the state board of finance to raise the tax rate nearly 10 cents on the $100 of assessable valuation; it is also one reason why it has been found necessary for the state treasury to anticipate the collections from the several county treasurers of the state to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars and to borrow temporarily vast sums of money in order to maintain the state's credit and ward off bankruptcy.

"Nineteen thousand dollars per year is a trifle high to pay for manufacturing sentiment against unfortunates who are sometimes burned out, but as it is done at the instigation of fire insurance companies, for whose benefit the office of fire marshal was created, and as their emissaries probably inspired and caused the publication of the sentiment complained of, the public generally will not be particularly distressed, but it is a small business for a state official to be engaged in. He would probably come as near earning his salary did he do nought else than simply draw it at stated intervals."

The expense of the state fire marshal's office is paid by assessment made upon the fire insurance companies doing business in Indiana rather than by taxation. However, this fact does not give any state official the privilege of trying to prejudice the minds of the people against some unfortunate property owner who has suffered the misfortune of a fire. If the state fire marshal wants to best serve the taxpayers and policy holders he should conduct an educational campaign rather than one of bitter denunciation which will only antagonize the mind of the public against his office.

GOSSIP FROM THE CAPITAL

Bits of Washington News of Particular Interest to Hoosiers.

Washington, May 15.—Senator Kern has received more than fifty letters from influential Indiana Democrats asking him to recommend Lew Ellingham for collector of customs in Indianapolis to succeed L. G. Rothschild. Since the announcement was made that the senator was minded to recommend the appointment of Dr. Thomas E. Stuckey, the friends of Ellingham have apparently been very busy. The senator makes no secret of the fact that his first choice is Oscar Henderson, and if the secretary of the treasury should be willing to waive the age limit, Henderson would undoubtedly be named in the recommendation. Senator Shively stands ready, it is understood, to write his name on Senator Kern's indorsement of most anybody for collector of customs.

Housewives are warned of dangers to health in the use of certain powders and compounds in preserving fruits and vegetables, in a statement by the department of agriculture. Its attention was recently directed to the fact that salicylic acid is being used as a preservative to a widespread extent, especially in rural communities. "Extensive use of salicylic acid in food," says the statement, "may be attended with very serious effects upon the health through derangement of the digestion."

President Wilson may attend the New Harmony (Ind.) centennial celebration, to be held June 7-13. In response to a formal invitation to attend, he said that he would not refuse at this time. "I hope I may be able to go," said he. "At any rate I shall take the invitation under advisement."

President Wilson wiped the Indiana presidential postoffice slate clean when he sent to the senate the following nominations: Marion, Oscar C. Bradford; Hope, Julius C. Fisher; Milroy, James R. Sage; Alexandria, Anderson B. Lee; Converse, Sylvester Rennaker; Decatur, John W. Bosse; Geneva, William W. Briggs; Lawrenceburg, Albert Spanagel; North Judson, Frank J. Vessely; Princeton, John C. Gorham; Summitville, William E. Cartwright.

NEVER SUSPECTED KIDNEY TROUBLE

Gained Fifty Pounds in Weight

Some time ago I was suffering from what I supposed was rheumatism. I became so bad that I could hardly get on my feet from a sitting position. I ran down in weight from 195 to 145 pounds. I tried different kinds of medicine, but received little or no help. I saw Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root highly recommended for kidney trouble but I never had an idea that my kidneys were affected. I thought I would try a fifty cent bottle of Swamp-Root and see what the effect would be. I commenced taking it according to directions and in a few days I saw that it was helping me. I used the fifty-cent bottle and then bought three more dollar bottles and they completely cured me. I have gone back to my original weight—195 pounds—and I am a thorough advocate of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as I believe it to be a remarkable preparation for what it is recommended to do.

WILLIAM H. PARTCH,
New Haven, Vt.

Personally appeared before me this 4th day of September, 1909, Wm. H. Partch, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Reichstag Started by a Cry of "Hurrah For France."

Berlin, May 15.—"Viva La France" was shouted in the reichstag yesterday for the first time on record. It was heard at the end of a speech by the Socialist Herr Wendel, who had been saying that French and German workmen were in hearty accord in their desire for peace and friendship. This sentiment was greeted with vivas by the Socialists. There were some angry shouts in other quarters, but the principal reception accorded it was ironical laughter.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS TO MEET AT INDIANAPOLIS

Interdenominational Convention Will be Held June 16-18—Entertainment at Nominal Price.

The Indiana Sunday School Convention which will be held in Indianapolis, June 16th, 17th and 18th, will be the Golden Jubilee meeting of this body. For fifty years the Sunday Schools of the State have been organized in an effort to help strengthen the work of all Protestant churches.

The present indications are that this convention will out-reach all previous records in point of numbers and enthusiasm. Owing to the central location the attendance is expected to run up into the thousands. There are over nine hundred county officers to say nothing of the township and individual school workers. One school in the north part of the State is planning to bring the entire staff of teachers and officers, numbering about thirty.

The First Baptist Church, corner of Vermont and Meridian streets, will be convention headquarters. The Second Presbyterian Church, one block east, and the Roberts Park M. E. Church, two blocks east, will also be used for simultaneous meetings and conferences. These churches are within easy access to the downtown district and both stations making the matter of getting to and from the trains and places of entertainment an easy one.

A splendid local committee composed of business and professional men of the city is looking after the details of caring for the convention in a thorough and business-like manner. Entertainment will be secured in the homes at a nominal price.

Further particulars may be had by writing the Indiana Sunday School Association, 417 Law Building, Indianapolis, Indiana.

made to Reduce Stout and Medium Figures

The new 1914 models are exquisite examples of the new figure lines with low bust and medium length—they will prove a revelation to women who have found nothing but discomfort in all other reducing corsets. Rengo Belt corsets are strong—in this respect they surpass corsets which bulge and stretch and lose their shape. They have elastic webbing placed exactly where it is needed and so they give freedom for dancing and active exercise—they are not cumbersome or trying on the nerves. Boned with double watch spring steels—very flexible but unbreakable—and guaranteed not to rust.

Sunday School Lesson

May 17. (Second Quarter) Lesson 7.
THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

GOLDEN TEXT—Whoso stoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, He shall also cry, but shall not be heard.

This is the only record of the spirit world given us by our Lord except His saying to the thief on the cross, "To-day shalt thou be with me in paradise" (Luke xxiii, 43). There are other words of the Spirit on which the righteous may rest as on a firm foundation, such as "Willing rather to be absent from the body and to be present with the Lord;" "To die is gain;" "I depart and to be with Christ is very far better" (I Cor. v, 8; Phil. i, 21, 23, 24, 25).

Personally I am as sure from these and other texts and from our lesson today of the conscious existence of those who go out from these mortal bodies as I am of my own present existence in this body. I know that resurrection and death will be the time of full reward for the righteous and full torment for the lost, but nothing could be more plain than this lesson concerning the conscious happiness or unhappiness of those whom we call dead. Note also in Rev. vi, 9-11, that some who had been slain for the word of God and the testimony which they held are told to rest and wait until their fellow servants should be killed. When our Lord told His disciples not to fear them which kill the body (Luke xii, 4) He evidently did not consider the death of the body a great calamity.

In our lesson the contrast between these two men, both in this life and in the life beyond, is most marked and striking. What could be a greater contrast than that of a man living in the luxury of this rich man, with all that money could obtain in the way of food and raiment and a mansion to correspond, and the poor, suffering, homeless beggar desiring the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table, a companion of the dogs? What multitudes would gladly share the rich man's portion, but where could one be found to take the beggar's place? How often the ungodly prosper in the world and increase in riches, but it is also true that often they are brought into desolation as in a moment and utterly consumed with terrors (Ps. lxxiii, 12, 19).

Both men died, and now we see the realities of eternity. We may easily imagine the pomp of the funeral of the rich man, though our Lord makes no reference to it beyond saying that he was buried. He does not say that the beggar had even a burial; but, leaving the bodies. He does show us the men who had departed from them. Angels carry the beggar to a place of happiness, but the rich man finds himself in the torments of the lost in hades crying out for a drop of water. It is an awful scene, a fearful change from the comfort of wealth on earth to the sufferings of the lost. Who would not be glad of the beggar's portion now, but who would not escape, if he could, the doom of the other?

I conclude from verse 25 that memory will play an important part in the sufferings of the lost between death and resurrection—the thought of what might have been—but now it is too late. Already there is a foretaste of the unquenchable fire of Gehenna, where their worm dieth not and the fire is not quenched (Mark ix, 43, 44). Part of the false teaching of our day is that there is no hell fire and that those who die in their sins can be saved after death, but our Lord brings before us a great gulch fixed between the saved and the lost, with the impossibility of passing from one place to the other. Elsewhere He taught that those who die in their sins cannot come where He is (John viii, 21, 24). In what may perhaps be the oldest book in the Bible we read, "Because there is wrath, beware lest He take thee away with His stroke; then a great ransom cannot deliver thee" (Job xxxvi, 18).

Having found out the awful reality of being lost, he becomes desirous that his brethren still on earth may be saved a like fate and begs that one may be sent to them from the dead lest they also come into the place of torment. He is assured that if they will not believe Moses and the prophets they will not believe though one should go to them from the dead. Here we see the cause of his being in the place of torment. There was not necessarily any sin in his being rich or in his having fine clothes and good food, but it is evident that he had no use for the word of God or for its warnings or entreaties.

Our lesson ought to be a very solemn word to all despisers of His word in our day, but who will pay it to heart? Even some who are Bible students and are sound on many points call this a parable, though it is not so called in the text, and endeavor to give it some other meaning. To me it is a simple and, in the case of the unbeliever, an awful statement of facts—our Lord drawing aside the veil for us and showing us the unseen. There came a time when another Lazarus came back from the dead, but it did no good to the unbelievers who were despisers, for they wanted to kill him over again because by reason of him many of the Jews went away and believed on Jesus (John xii, 10, 11).

In this life is the time to believe and be saved, and the word of God ought to suffice. Those who believe not the record made God a liar (I John v, 10).

Mayor Ross asked for a report from the public utilities committee and City Attorney Kasting responded that several propositions had been received from expert engineers and that their qualifications were being investigated. He said nothing definite.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning, and you will soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

ite could be done until the Indiana Public Service Commission fixed a date for the hearing of the petitions.

Mayor Ross reported that the "clean up and paint up" campaign was just about completed and while it was a little more expensive than anticipated the committee felt that the money had been well expended. He said that several citizens had remarked that trash was being hauled away that had been collecting for ten years. Means are being considered, he asserted, by which there will be little to do in such a campaign next year.

Upon motion of Ahlbrand the gas bill of last month amounting to $14 be paid. He said that the Gas Company insisted that the meter reading was correct. He suggested that a coal heater is provided instead of the gas heater as it is believed that the heater is responsible for the sudden jump in the bills from about forty cents a month to $14 per month.

Andrews introduced a resolution "that lots 1, 2, 3 in block A, East Side Park, add to Seymour be leased to the Nutter Gear Wood Co. for a term of ten years at $5 per month rent, payable quarterly. The lessee to have an option to purchase the said property any time within the term of ten years and after said lessee had paid in wages to citizens of the city of Seymour the sum of $50,000. The purchase price to be fixed by appraisers but not to exceed five hundred dollars.

"Be it further resolved that the Mayor be instructed to execute for the city a lease of said property to be said Nutter Gear Wood Co. with the option and condition as above provided. Upon motion of Andrews the resolution was adopted.

Ahlbrand as chairman of the finance committee, presented a resolution to pay off notes amounting to $8,000. Each of the local national banks holds notes for $4,000. This money was borrowed in order to tide the city over a "financial depression" which condition was discovered when the present council went into office. The resolution was adopted.

Ley asked the city attorney for an opinion about the construction of the sewer back of Cordes' Hardware store. The city attorney replied that he had read the contract and had found that it only provided for the construction of a sewer and nothing was said about replacing the bricks in the street or alley. He stated, however, that it was his understanding that the contractor had verbally agreed to place the brick street in as good a condition as he found it and thought that he could be held to the contract.

J. F. McCurdy told the council that he had taken the contract and insisted that he had done more than he agreed to do and insisted that the amount of the contract be paid. The council voted to leave the matter with the city engineer and the contractor's representative and to report if a compromise could be reached.

Two bids were received for the construction of a concrete channel at the intersection of Walnut and Bruce streets. The city agreed to furnish the iron plates for the top of the channel and DeGolyer & Masters offered to build the channel for $249. Harry Marberry's bid was $335. The bids were referred to the board of works upon motion of Ahlbrand.

Ahlbrand reported that serious complaints had been made about the garbage hauler. He said the garbage in one alley had not been removed for six weeks. Mayor Ross stated that he and the secretary of the board of health would hold a conference soon with the garbage and ash haulers and determine if better service could not be obtained. "Something must be done," said the Mayor as many reports have come to the city building from all parts of the city.

Upon motion of Ahlbrand the street commissioner was instructed to repair a washout on West Bruce street.

Steinwedel moved that the German Lutheran Hall be granted the privilege of holding its annual picnic at the city park on June 18 and that a temporary hitch rack be built outside the park. Such an arrangement was made last year.

Upon motion of Andrews the city clerk was instructed to notify the contractors who constructed Ewing and North Chestnut streets that several places were in bad condition and should be repaired under the five-year-maintenance bond.

Permission was granted to tap the sewer in the alley back of Farmers' Club lot on South Chestnut street, provided the usual license be taken out.

It was reported that the previous council had entered into a contract with T. M. Jackson to wind the clock on the Majestic Theater and that the semi-annual bill of $12.50 was due May 1. The treasurer was instructed to pay the claim.

The street commissioner was instructed to remove an anchor rod on Seventh street near Ewing. It was placed as a support to a pole belonging to the old telephone company.

The city engineer was instructed to arrange for the proper drainage on Pine street between Sixth and Seventh streets. The contractor, Harry Marberry, stated he would be ready to begin work the early part of next week.

INDIANA PEOPLE FIND QUICK RELIEF FROM STOMACH TROUBLE

First Dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy Gives Most Surprising Results.

Hundreds of Indiana people have found relief from stomach and digestive troubles by the use of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy.

This remedy is safe and efficient. The first dose gives results. And the treatment is not long. It has a wonderful record.

Here are the statements of two who have used and proven the merit of the remedy:

CHARLES INMAN, 424 East Chestnut Street, Hartford, City, Ind.—"Four doctors said they could not cure me unless I went to Fort Wayne to be operated on. I took your treatment. In three weeks I went to work and haven't missed but a half day since."

WALTER SPRAY, 1011 South Second Street, Frankfort, Ind.—"Before I took your medicine I suffered a great deal, but since I took the first dose I have not had a bad, snell. I feel it is even more than you claim."

Letters like this come from all over the country. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy produces results. The first dose proves it.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to C. E. Loertz' drug store and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its wonderful effects.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

Author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"

CHAPTER V. A Kiss.

"SHALL we have our walk in the woods on the Edgewood side of the river, just for a change, Patty?" suggested her sister. "The water is so high this year that the river will be splendid. We can gather our flowers in the hill pasture, and then you'll be quite near Mrs. Boynton's and can carry the nosegay there while I come home ahead of you and get supper. I'll take today's eggs to father's store on the way and ask him if he minds our having a little walk. I've an errand at Aunt Abby's that would take me down to the bridge anyway."

"Very well," said Patty somewhat apathetically. "I always like a walk with you, but I don't care what becomes of me this afternoon if I can't go to Ellen's party."

The excursion took place according to Waitstill's plan, and at 4 o'clock she sped back to her night work and preparations for supper, leaving Patty with a great bunch of early wild flowers for Ivory's mother. Patty had left them at the Boyntons' door with Rodman, who was picking up chips and volunteered to take the nosegay into the house at once.

"Won't you step inside?" the boy asked shyly, wishing to be polite, but conscious that visitors from the village very seldom crossed the threshold.

"I'd like to, but I can't this afternoon, thank you. I must run all the way down the hill now or I shan't be in time to supper."

"Do you eat meals together over to your house?" asked the boy.

"We're all three at the table, if that means together."

"We never are. Ivory goes off early and takes lunch in a pail. So do I when I go to school. Aunt Boynton never sits down to eat. She just stands at the window and takes a bite of something now and then. You haven't got any mother, have you?"

"No, Rodman."

"Neither have I, nor any father, nor any relations but Aunt Boynton and Ivory. Ivory is very good to me, and when he's at home I'm never lonesome."

"I wish you could come over and eat with sister and me," said Patty gently. "Perhaps sometime, when my father is away buying goods and we are left alone, you could join us in the woods, and we would have a picnic? We would bring enough for you—all sorts of good things—hard boiled eggs, doughnuts, apple turnovers and bread spread with jelly."

"I'd like it fine!" exclaimed Rodman, his big dark eyes sparkling with anticipation. "I don't have many boys to play with, and I never went to a picnic. Aunt Boynton watches for uncle most all the time. She doesn't know he has been away for years and years. When she doesn't watch she prays. Sometimes she wants me to pray with her, but praying don't come easy to me."

"Neither does it to me," said Patty.

"I'm good at marbles and checkers and backgammon and jack straws, though."

"So am I," said Patty, laughing; "so we should be good friends. I'll try to get a chance to see you soon again, but perhaps I can't; I'm a good deal tied at home."

"Your father doesn't like you to go anywhere, I guess," interposed Rodman. "I've heard Ivory tell Aunt Boynton things, but I wouldn't repeat them. Ivory's trained me years and years not to tell anything, so I don't."

"That's a good boy!" approved Patty. Then as she regarded him more closely, she continued, "I'm sorry you're lonesome, Rodman, I'd like to see you look brighter."

"You think I've been crying," the boy said shrewdly. "So I have, but not because I've been punished. The reason my eyes are so swollen up is because I killed our old toad by mistake this morning. I was trying to see if I could swing the scythe so's to help Ivory in haying time. I've only raked after, and I want to begin on mowing soon's I can. Then, somehow or other, the old toad came out from under the steps. I didn't see him, and the scythe hit him square. I cried for an hour, that's what I did, and I don't care who knows it, except I wouldn't like the boys at school to hear me. I've buried the toad out behind the barn, and I hope Ivory'll let me keep the news from Aunt Boynton. She cries enough now without my telling her there's been a death in the family. She set great store by the old toad, and so did all of us."

"It's too bad, I'm sorry. But, after all, you couldn't help it."

"No, but we should always look round everywhere when we're cutting—that's what Ivory says. He says folks shouldn't use edged tools till they're old enough not to fool with 'em."

And Rodman looked so wise and old fashioned for his years that Patty did not know whether to kiss him or cry over him as she said: "Ivory's always right. And now, goodbye. I must go this very minute. Don't forget the picnic."

"I won't!" cried the boy, gazing after her, wholly entranced with her bright beauty and her kindness. "Say, I'll bring something, too—white oak acorns, if you like 'em. I've got a big bagful up attic!"

Patty sped down the long lane, crept under the bars and flew like a lapwing over the highroad.

"If father was only like any one else things might be so different!" she sighed, her thoughts running along with her feet. "Nobody to make a home for that poor lonesome little boy and that poor lonesome big Ivory. I am sure that he is in love with Waitstill. He doesn't know it. She doesn't know it. Nobody does but me, but I'm clever at guessing. I was the only one that surmised Jed Morrill was going to marry again. I should almost like Ivory for myself, he is so tall and handsome, but of course he can never marry anybody. He is too poor and has his mother to look after. I wouldn't want to take him from Waity, though, and then perhaps I couldn't get him anyway. If I couldn't, he'd be the only one! I have never tried yet, but I feel in my bones somehow, that I could have any boy in Edgewood or Riverboro by just 'raking my forefinger and beckoning to him. I wish—I wish they were different! They don't make me want to be like them! My forefinger just stays straight and doesn't feel like crooking! There's Cephas Cole, but he's as stupid as an owl. I don't want a husband that keeps his mouth wide open whenever I'm talking, no matter whether it's sense or nonsense. There's Phil Perry, but he likes Ellen, and besides, he's too serious for me. And there's Mark Wilson, he's the best dressed and the only one that's been to college. He looks at me all the time in meeting and asked me if I wouldn't take a walk some Sunday afternoon. I know he planned Ellen's party hoping I'd be there! Goodness gracious, I do believe that is his horse coming behind me! There's no other in the village that goes at such a gait!"

It was, indeed, Mark Wilson, who always drove, according to Aunt Abby Cole, "as if he was going for a doctor." He caught up with Patty almost in the twinkling of an eye, but she was ready for him. She had taken off her sunbonnet just to twirl it by the string, she was so warm with walking, and in a jiffy she had lifted the clustering curls from her ears, tucked them back with a single expert movement and disclosed two coral pendants just the color of her ear tips and her glowing cheeks.

"Hello, Patty!" the young man called in brusque country fashion as he reined up beside her. "What are you doing over here? Why aren't you on your way to the party? I've been over to Limington and am breaking my neck to get home in time myself."

"I am not going. There are no parties for me," said Patty plaintively.

"Not going? Oh, I say, what's the matter? It won't be a bit of fun without you. Ellen and I made it up expressly for you, thinking your father couldn't object to a candy pull."

"I can't help it. I did the best I could. Waitstill always asks father for me, but I wouldn't take any chances today, and I spoke to him myself. Indeed, I almost coaxed him."

"He's a regular old skinflint," cried Mark, getting out of the wagon and walking beside her.

"You musn't call him names," Patty interposed, with some dignity. "I call him a good many myself, but I'm his daughter."

"You don't look it," said Mark admiringly. "Come and have a little ride, won't you?"

"Oh, I couldn't possibly, thank you. Some one would be sure to see us, and father's so strict."

"There isn't a building for half a mile. Just jump in and have a spin till we come to the first house; then I'll let you out, and you can walk the rest of the way home. Come, do, and make up to me a little for my disappointment. I'll skip the candy pull if you say the word."

It was an incredibly brief drive at Mark's rate of speed and as exciting and blissful as it was brief and dangerous, Patty thought. Did she imagine it or did Mark help her into the wagon differently from—old Dr. Perry, for instance?

The fresh breeze lifted the gold thread of her curls and gave her cheeks a brighter color, while her breath came fast through her parted lips and her eyes sparkled at the unexpected, unaccustomed pleasure. She felt so grown up, so conscious of a new power, as she sat enthroned on the little wagon seat (Mark Wilson always liked his buggies "courtin' size," so the neighbors said) that she was almost courageous enough to agree to make a royal progress through the village—almost, but not quite.

"Come on, let's shake the old fables up and start 'em talking, shall we?" Mark suggested. "I'll give you the reins and let Nero have a flick of the whip."

"No, I'd rather not drive," she said. "I'd be afraid of this horse and, anyway, I must get out this very minute—yes, I really must. If you hold Nero I can just slip down between the wheels. You needn't help me."

Mark alighted notwithstanding her objections, saying gallantly, "I don't miss this pleasure, not by a jugful! Come along! Jump!"

"Mother says that two rooms are big enough to set up housekeeping in."

Patty stretched out her hands to be helped, but Mark forestalled her by putting his arms around her and lifting her down. A second of time only was involved, but in that second he held her close and kissed her warm cheek, her cheek that had never felt the touch of any lips but those of Waitstill. She pulled her sunbonnet over her flaming face, while Mark, with a gay smile of farewell, sprang into the wagon and gave his horse a free rein.

Patty never looked up from the road, but walked faster and faster, her heart beating at breakneck speed. It was a changed world that spun past her. Fright, triumph, shame, delight, gratified vanity swam over her in turn.

A few minutes later she heard once more the rumble of wheels on the road. It was Cephas Cole driving toward her over the brow of Saco hill. "He'll have seen Mark," she thought, "but he can't know I've talked and driven with him. Ugh! how stupid and common he looks!"

"I heard your father blowin' the supper horn jest as I come over the bridge," remarked Cephas, drawing up in the road. "He stood in the doorway blowin' like Bedlam. I guess you're late to supper."

"I'll be home in a few minutes," said Patty, "I got delayed and am a little behindhand."

"I'll turn right round if you'll git in and lemme take you back along a piece, it'll save you a good five minutes," begged Cephas abjectly.

"All right, much obliged, but it's against the rules and you must drop me at the foot of our hill and let me 'k up."

"Certainly, I know the deacon, 'n' I ain't huntin' for trouble any more'n you be, though I'd take it quick enough if you jest give me leave! I ain't no coward, an' I could tackle the deacon tomorrow if so be I had anything to ask him."

This seemed to Patty a line of conversation distinctly to be discouraged under all the circumstances, and she tried to keep Cephas on the subject of his daily tasks and his mother's rheumatism until she could escape from his overappreciative society.

"How do you like my last job?" he inquired as they passed his father's house. "Some think I've got the ell a little dited too yaller. Folks that ain't never handled a brush allers think they can mix paint better 'n them that knows their trade."

"If your object was to have everybody see the ell a mile away you've succeeded," said Patty cruelly. She never flung the poor boy a civil word for fear of getting something warmer than civility in return.

"It'll tone down," Cephas responded, rather crestfallen. "I wanted a good, bright, lastin' shade. 'T won't look so yaller when father lets me paint the house to match, but that won't be till next year. He makes fun of the yaller color same as you; says a home's something you want to forget when you're away from it. Mother says the two rooms of the ell are big enough for somebody to set up housekeepin' in. What do you think?"

"I never think," returned Patty, with a tantalizing laugh. "Good night, Cephas; thank you for giving me a lift!"

Rheumatic Throat Is Common Trouble

Should Be Treated in Blood To Prevent Recurrence.

There are successful gargles that stop soreness in the throat, but to prevent their incessant return, the blood must be put in order. The best remedy is S. S. S., as it influences all the functions of the body to neutralize the irritants or waste products and to stimulate their excretion through the proper channels.

Rheumatic sore throat is a dangerous indication, as it means that the blood is loaded with more uric acid than the kidneys can excrete, and may thus lead to serious general disturbance.

The action of S. S. S. stimulates cellular activity. It prevents the accumulation of irritants in local spots. It enables the arteries to supply quickly the new red blood to replace worn-out tissue.

For this reason uric acid that finds the throat an easy prey to its breaking-down influence, is scattered and eliminated. In other words, S. S. S. prevents chronic conditions by enabling all the nervous linings of the body to secrete healthy mucus. Its influence is shown in a marked improvement of the bronchial tubes, whereby the huskiness of voice with thick, grayish expectorations is overcome. S. S. S., well diluted with water, means a blood bath, since it is welcome to any stomach and at once gets into the blood.

S. S. S. is free of all minerals—and contains ingredients wonderfully conducive to well-balanced health.

You can get it at any drug store, but do not accept anything else. There is danger in substitutes. S. S. S. is prepared only by The Swift Specific Co., 528 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Our Medical Dept. will give you free instruction by mail on any subject of blood disorders. Write today.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

MEN'S SOCIAL.

The Young Men's Class of the First Baptist Sunday School entertained the Men's class at a social at the church Thursday evening. During the program Grover Marquett presided. The greetings of the class were extended by Will Kendall, class president, and the response was made by Raymond Brown for the Men's class. Other addresses were made by Jay C. Smith, superintendent, and Rev. Chas. L. Graham, pastor. The addresses were interspersed with instrumental music by Russell Phillips and vocal music by other members of the class. Refreshments were served in two courses, the young men themselves looking after the menu. The remainder of the evening was spent with charades. The affair proved a very enjoyable event and an auspicious beginning for a larger work among the men of this church.

REBEKAHS.

The members of Seymour Rebekah lodge enjoyed a progressive luncheon Thursday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall with the May social committee. The lunch was served in four courses and those present spent a delightful evening.

AMERICANS AT TAMPICO PROTECTED BY U. S. SHIPS

Rebels Plan to Resist Attack of Federals—Conditions Reported Normal.

Havana, May 15.—When the Mexican delegates to the peace conference at Niagara Falls, Canada, arrived here from Vera Cruz they were transferred to the steamer Miami, which had waited two hours for them, and which sailed at once for Key West.

Washington, May 15.—Admiral Mayo on board the cruiser Des Moines entered the Panuco river and docked the United States war vessel at the Tampico wharf. The dispatch boat Dolphin accompanied the Des Moines. The navy department officials carefully explained that this move had no object other than a desire to render all assistance possible to the afflicted of both armies and make conditions in the city safe for the Americans. Officials here said the recognition of a blockade by Huerta forces would in no way entail recognition of the Mexican dictator.

The English and German attitude toward the blockade has not yet been ascertained by state department officials, as it is in no wise certain that such is the intention of Huerta. Tampico itself is reported quiet. On his arrival in the city Admiral Mayo called the navy department that conditions generally are becoming normal.

Before leaving the city the federal soldiers blew up their barracks in the center of the city. One gunboat belonging to the federal forces still remains in the Panuco river, Mayo reported. The Vera Cruz, which has been stationed throughout the fighting near the railroad bridge, was left there. It is not known whether it was unable to pass down the river past the bridge, or whether it was deserted by the crew and was captured by the rebels.

The possession of the gunboat by the rebels and the artillery in their possession are expected to give the conquerors of the city sufficient heavy guns to move down to the mouth of the Panuco and engage the two federal gunboats now there in the event of the expected blockade.

Naval officers privately are fearful that since Tampico has fallen, that a most embarrassing situation may arise for the United States. They ask what will Washington do if the Constitutionalists attempt to land a cargo of arms and ammunition. Will it apply the neutrality law of the states to the high seas, or will it seize the customs house?

Boy Died Suddenly.

Sylvanus, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sullivan, who live near Peter's Switch, died suddenly this afternoon of heart trouble. He had been a sufferer with rheumatism for several months and it affected his heart. The boy's condition became more serious and a physician was called, but he died as the doctor was entering the yard. The family moved to their present home from Waynesville a short time ago.

Mrs. Mattie Crim, of Sellersburg, has returned to her home after a short visit here with friends on her way home from Indianapolis.
